

Are you looking for a Professional Makeup Artist....

We often get asked why I should pay for a Professional Makeup Artist when a beautician can do the job.

It is true that your friend or a relative or a beautician that knows about makeup can do the job but a professional artist knows the details of how your makeup will affect your skin, impacts of weather, lighting camera technique and lot of other things.

She will work with pigments and colors that complement your skin, style, look and personality. We will meet you for a trial consultation at least a month before your auspicious day and will make recommendations on the best ways to prepare your skin for the day. She will address all your concerns and/or allergies that you might have to products or chemicals and also will give you tips to become more pretty naturally.

Finally, working with a professional will put you and your loved ones at ease on your big day. Allowing yourself to look absolutely radiant on your wedding day is not a luxury, it is an absolute must!

Yes....
